CANTINE CELLARO

Cantine Cellaro is located in Sambuca de Sicilia and is part of the Fantini group. Sambuca de Sicilia is 60km southwest of Palermo where beautiful mountains surround the Lake Arancio. This region has been producing grapes for centuries. The vineyards reach up to 600m above sea level and they focus on mainly native varieties such as Nero d'Avola, carefully farming to produce the best expression of the fruit. Cantine Cellaro has a special arrangement with many growers in this region with the winemaking team selecting the best rows of each vineyard depending on the clones, position in the vineyard and age of the vine.

WINEMAKING

This wine is produced from the best grapes of Nero d'Avola (60%) and Nerello Mascalese (40%). The grapes are sourced from vines situated on the steep slopes of the Sambuca area overlooking lake Arancio. Here the soil conditions create a wonderful expression of high quality grapes, rich and full of fruitiness and aroma. The grapes are lightly pressed to avoid green tannins. The wine undergoes a long fermentation with maceration in order to extract color and aromas. Malolactic fermentation is carried out in American oak and it is left to age for four months.

WINEMAKER'S NOTES

This wine shows a deep ruby red color. Intense notes of red fruits and spice with a pleasant hint of balsamic.

Ideal with rice dishes with red meat and a typical Sicilian dish of boar, Sicilian sauce and aromatic herbs.

Alcohol: 13.5%
