WINEMAKER'S NOTES

The grapes are harvested in the early morning to keep them bright and fresh. The fruit goes in whole clusters into the press and is then racked off to stainless steel tanks for cold fermentation. Before bottling, some of the wine is aged in neutral oak barrels to enhance mouthfeel.

VINTAGE 2023

This year in Casablanca, the ripening curve was significant due to temperatures being closer to average during the spring. However, during the summer, temperatures were higher than in past years. This prepared us to begin the harvest at the end of February. The harvest process was different this year as we started with Chardonnay, followed by Pinot Noir a week later, and then Sauvignon Blanc. This is quite unusual for this valley, where the typical order is Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay, and Pinot Noir, with Merlot and Syrah being harvested last.
